10 Valuable Lessons I've Learned in 20 Years of Ministry

10. Kids don't care how old you are, how much money you make, what you wear, or how you look, they just want to connect.
9. People who work with children are true servant leaders, always giving more than expected because they feel "called" to what they do. Trinity has the best lay and paid leaders.
8. If children need money, Trinity always responds. "No child gets left out of participating due to finances."
7. The Children's Building is a spectacular place. The walls are filled with paintings of the Bible. The sounds of the children are pure joy.
6. Diversity is beautiful. Every child belongs.
5. Kids are truth tellers. There is a sweet innocence to their honesty.
4. Kids can have differences of opinion and still love one another.
3. I get hugs every Sunday.
2. They hold me accountable. When you teach a lesson to kids, and they see you deal with life, they really expect you to practice what you preach.
1. God called me to Trinity twenty-years ago in a surprising, unexpected way.

The people here have become more than just a community, they are family. There have been times when you as a church have literally "carried" me when I felt I couldn't hold myself up.
